

Free Training Session Supporting Disabled People and Carers

Do you work with or support disabled people and their carers in Bromley?
Does your client group include people who may have a hidden disability or caring responsibility?

These free training sessions will be useful for anyone working with, or supporting, disabled people and their carers, or for anyone wanting to understand more about disability and the identification of mutual and young carers. The first part of the session covers:

- the legal context of disability
- an overview of disability confidence, covering communication and the use of appropriate language/etiquette
- considerations when working with disabled people.

The second part covers:

How Bromley Well services can support disabled people and their carers. There will be examples of how the service has made a difference to local people's lives. It is an interactive session including discussion and face to face interviews with clients who have been supported by Bromley Well.

The session is suitable for anyone engaging with the public on a daily basis.

This course will run several times throughout the year, please e-mail the address below to receive details of further dates.

Tuesday 4 February - 1.30 - 5pm
